the committee. The resolution of Rev. Mr. Rucker was agreed to.

On motion of Dr. Shattuck, of Massachusetts, the thanks of the convention were returned to the postmaster for the facilities offered in the receiving and posting of letters.

The house then resumed consideration of resolution 12 of the joint committee on the prayer book relating to the holy communion. The rubric (section C) was amended so as to provide for the omission of the decalogue at one of the celebrations of the holy communion, when the holy communion has been celebrated more than once in the has been celebrated more than once in the same day. The section as amended was adopted.

In section G Rev. Dr. Huntington moved to strike out the words "or sung" in the rubric, which was agreed to.

The clause was then adopted, with the above amendment, as amended by the house of bishops by striking out the words "Nicene creed" and substituting "or this."

Rev. Dr. Peterkin, of Virginia, suggested the striking out of clause J, which is as follows: "J. Add to the rubric which follows the offertory sentences these words: "and the offertory sentences these words: and when the alms are presented, there may be sung or said an offertory anthem.

Rev. Dr. Huntington explained that it was permissive and not mandatory, and the sec-tion was then adopted.

tion was then adopted.

Section K, which provides for transferring the two working exhortations and also the prayer for the church militant to a place at the end of the office, was agreed to.

Section L was then considered as follows:
L. Add to the rubric before the exhortations beginning "Dearly beloved in the Lord ye who mind, &c." the words, "But note that the exhortation may be omitted if it hath been already said once in that same month."

Rev. Dr. Girault, of Louisiana, moved to strike out this section.

strike out this section.
Mr. Abert, of Maryland, hoped there would be no mutilation of this most solemn service.

A deputy from northern New Jersey offered an amendment, which was agreed to, to strike out the word "once" and insert "on one Lord's day."

Rev. Dr. Adams, of Wisconsin, put himself forward as the most law-abiding person in the convention. He had always said the exhortaconvention. He had always said the exhorta-tion, "Dearly beloved brethren," although he knew it to be the worst constructed piece of English in the English language. He would to the day of his death say the longer exhorta-tion, although he was very willing that there should be a shorter one. Section L as amended was then adopted.

Section O, relating to the consecration prayer, was adopted as amended by the house of bishops.

Rev. Dr. Goodwin, of Pennsylvania, offered as an amendment to section S the following:

"The holy communion shall not be celebrated in any congregation unless there are some persons present ready and expected to par-ticipate with the priest."

Rev. Dr. Goodwin said that there are men in England and in this country ministers who think that they can conscientiously celebrate think that they can conscientiously celebrate the hely communion when no one is expected to participate. The evil may not have extended far, but it has begun. Let us say precisely what we mean. Some clergymen think they can have a regular celebration once a month and solitary communious as often as they pleass. What is the use of the exhortation when no one is expected to partake.

Mr. Judd, of Illinois, seconded Dr. Goodwin's amendment, and said it was beyond his compreheusion how anyone could hold that comprehension how anyone could hold that such is not the law to-day. He was anxious to adopt the rubric so that there may be no mistake about it.

Rev. Dr. Huntington suggested the follow ing substitute, which was agreed to by Dr. Goodwin: "And there shall be no celebration of the Lord's supper unless there be a convenient number to communicate with the venient number to communicate with the priest, according to his discretion, and even though there be not above twenty persons in the parish of discretion to receive the communion. Yet there shall be no communion unless three, or two at the least, commune with the priest."

The substitute was adopted, as was also the section as amended.

After adopting resolution 12, as amended.

After adopting resolution 12, as amended, the house took a recoss.

The following is the pastoral letter of the house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church:

church:

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 28—Dear Brethren of the Cergy and Larly: Our moneral convention closes with signal toxons of the favor of God. His mercies have not been prevented by the "manifold infirmities" of its members nor any waste of His grace. We go to our several posts of service grateful that our bonds of brothernood in Christ have been confirmed, the extent and nower of our missions enlarged beyond precedent, and our hopes of a lasting future unity in Christsendom encouraged. We shall all count it a religious gain if something has been done to add richness and majesty to the public worship of the Most High. While mourning the absence of revered fathers and brothers residing in Paradies, and while regretting that some of our number have been kent away from our counsels by bodily weekness, we remember with devout tkankfulness those who, having been constant to the end, have departed in God's faith and fear, and we affectionately coms mend the sick, the aged, and the beloved to Hi compassion.

cord of the past holds out a promise of a balance in ecclesiastical legislation be-No record of the past holds out a promise of a perfect balance in ecclesisation between loyalty to unalterable truth and a due regard to what is variable, but none the less actual in the needs of society. To the law maker, the theologian, and the pastor alike it must always cost an effort to adjust in a satisfying harmony the contending claims of old with new uncompromising creeds with honest movements of religious thought, the constitution and verities of a kingdom which can never charge with these inferences from fixed standards, which must inevitably shift with periods and degrees of knowledge within the wide limits of the mind of a race made by the Allwise and visited by the Holy Ghost. Many of the most perjekting problems before us center in this conflict. Not a few of the most serious perils that threaten both the faith and the life of the church arise from it; for the life can never be separated from the faith.

But in this strife we cannot do better than to plant our feet in fresh confidence on that foundation which is subject to no musations of time, or climate, or social circumstance, or scientific discovery, or philosophic speculation. We have a church charter, thanks be to God, as incidigible as it is indisputable.

We stand on the fundamental and all—includ-

The letter then treats of emigration, and says: "In the action of this convention taking measures to provide a Christian care for the immense mass of European emigrants daily arriving at our scaports and lake ports and distributed over the continent, there is pointed out a line of usefulness peculiar to our condition open to clergy and laity alike."

The bishops next take up the question of the desceration of marriage vows and handle it roughly. The public schools are also referred to and great care in their administration is advocated.

The letter ends in a triumphant referen to the success of the church, spiritually and financially.

Improvements. ground for the erection of a handsome church edifice on Eighth, between B and C streets northeast. The church will be constructed in the early English style of Potomac blue stone, with brick trimmings. The building will be thirty-four feet front and seventy-five feet in depth. The inside of the church will be nicely finished, and will contain a clergy and a choir vestry. The chancel will be twenty by twenty-two feet. The cost will be be about $7,000. Rev. J. W. Clark is the rector of the church. A parochial organization had existed in the north-castern section for about ten years provious to two years ago, when the present rector was assigned to the parish, and since that time services have been regularly held on Ninth, between G and H streets northeast. It was through the Rev. Mr. Clark that the new church was commenced. At present the congregation is very large.

Baptist Conferences.

The Baptist churches of this city met every evening of the past week for prayer and conference. The following topics were discussed by the pastors of the churches: "Our Mission as Baptists," "Causes of Discouragement," "Instrumentalities of the Spirit," "Power from on High," "Develop-Spirit," "Power from on High," "Development of Church Power," "Our Young People," "The Prayer Meeting." The meetings were all largely attended and bid fair to be profitable.

GOVERNORS of states, mayors of cities, pre-St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-reliever.

Complimentary to Miss Alice Johnson, A complimentary concert has been tendered by the First Congregational church to Miss Alice E. Johnson, a member of the church choir, to take place at the church Friday evening Nov. 2. Among the many attractions on the programme are the following; Jewel song, from "Faust," by Miss Eva Mills; "Fior di Margherita" or "Baisy Polka," by Miss Minnie Ewan; sole on the contra basso, by Herr Josef Backel, and the "Good Night" quartette from Martha.

THE NATIONAL RIFLE CADETS. Enjoyable Hop at the New Armory-Who

Were Present. The complimentary soirce of the National Rifle cadets at the National Rifles' armery last night was as brilliant and enjoyable an affair as youth, beauty, and enthusiasm could make it. The whole armory was given up to the young folks, and it was gay with the happy light heartedness of youth. With ad-happy light heartedness of youth. With admirable judgment, the invited guests wore limited to just such numbers as made it a success without the annoyance or discomforts of a jam. The programme of dances comprised sixtoen in all, commencing with a Strauss waltz and ending with a Strauss waltz and the gay fancy of the youthful dancer. The Marine band furnished the music, and the whole affair was pleasant in the extreme.

Among those who were present were:
Miss Carrie Kaiser, Miss Connell, Miss Ida Hart, Miss Jennie Chandler, Miss Annie Lewis, Miss Clara Fiether, Miss Blanche Fiether, Miss Vandeventer, Miss Dails Siddons, Miss Cranmer, Miss Jennie Clark, Miss Davis, Miss Cranmer, Miss Jennie Clark, Miss Lille Lewis, Miss Kaufman, Miss Fannie Clark, Miss Lille Lewis, Miss Tomburg, Va.; Miss Lily Sedd, Miss Hogan, Miss Walter, Miss Maggie Dunn, Miss Smith, Miss Tomburn, Va.; Miss Lily Sedd, Miss Hogan, Miss Walter, Miss Maggie Dunn, Miss Smith, Miss Tomburn, Miss Florence Smith, Miss Gray, Miss Royers, Miss Cowling, Miss Mahan, Miss Abhurn, Miss Scheeger, Miss Barrington, Miss Maggie Wood, Miss Baker, Miss Crowley, Missers, F.
